

Maryemma Graham

---

I care about legacy and tradition, passing on knowledge so that we build stronger institutions, organizations whose leadership is based on preserving and sharing knowledge that we acquire. So I hope to get the attention of those who are mentorable and who believe in intergenerational collaboration. We should look for people who don't mind. Hard work and don't need to grandstand, who are highly competent without being overly competitive.

I work well in collaboration because I am methodical and intentional and like to stay on target. Tactical and strategic thinking around sustainability. Grant writing, organizing, breaking down big projects into workable units, and identifying other people's strengths.